Highway Department Faces Uphill Battle Over Signs Along Roads

AN UPHILL BATTLE looms ahead for the State Highway Department in its attempt to prevent Michigan's roadways from becoming part of a billboard jungle.

Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie recently reminded businessmen and organizations throughout the state that state law and federal highway regulations prohibited signs on highway right-of-way.

Legislation to restrict the size, number and type of signs which could be placed along Interstate routes was proposed in the 1961 session. It failed passage in the regular legislature and a special session.

An upshot of the proposal was an interim committee to study whether such legislation was necessary or desired. Representatives of business, chambers of commerce and individual commercial interests testified before the committee.

General agreement was voiced that some control should be imposed to keep the quality of signs high, the size somewhat uniform and the quantity limited. The business interests disagreed, however, with highway officials and beauty lovers on what size was adequate, and what spacing regulations would be fair.

All agreed, however, that the state law prohibiting signs on the right-of-way should be rigidly enforced. Spot checks of heavily-traveled routes throughout the state showed large numbers of hand-lettered and old, rusted signs near the edges of roads.

The hand-lettered signs generally publicized a roadside vegetable or fruit stand in front of a farmer's home. The old, unkempt signs appeared as remnants of advertising campaigns of years gone by.

Mackie estimated between 15,000 and 20,000 signs located on the right-of-way would be affected by the crackdown. The letters requested the owners to remove the signs, but the law provides for court action against those who do not comply.

"The response so far has been mostly favorable and there is every indication that the vast majority of sign owners will comply," Mackie said.

Another legislative committee, however, indicated the department might have some trouble enforcing the cleanup. A committee studying the problems of the tourist industry said several businessmen had "complained about the crackdown within hours or days after they received the department letter."

There were also signs that those against the orders would organize their resistance efforts, but it remains to be seen if they will develop into anything effective. If the law is clear, Mackie is on sound ground, and there is little to do but comply either willingly or without enthusiasm.

LICENSE PLATE SALES this year started off unusually brisk, but the traditional long lines of vehicle owners can still be expected at the end of February, Secretary of State James M. Hare said.

Early in November, when the sales started, many branches reported increases up to 300 per cent when compared with the same periods of 1960.

The refund of fees imposed for reflectorized plates last year, the fact that current plates were three years old, and a brightening economic picture were credited with the upswing in sales.

Some 13.7 per cent of the first 110,000 persons who bought 1962 license plates received credits on the 35-cent fees paid last year, Hare said.

Red tape in clearing the requests for refunds means a slight delay will affect the remaining vehicle owners. The last-minute buyers this year are expected to find no exception to the long lines experienced previously.

THE LONG PERIOD BETWEEN the initial sales of new license plates and the dead-line for using the old ones often creates problems for law enforcement agencies.

Secretary of State James M. Hare is the first each year to remind motorists to take care in disposing of old license plates. "Often when buyers of new plates mount them, they fail to destroy the discarded license," Hare said. "Criminal elements in the community can pick up such plates, attach them to a vehicle, steal ... for the women of our time ...

This is the physician who many feel has done most for women of our time. He is Dr. George N. Papanicolaou who pioneered in cytology and in developing the cell examination for uterine cancer for the very early detection of cancer of the uterus or womb. If every woman had her doctor perform this simple, painless procedure once a year, thousands of those who have cancer of the uterus could be saved.

About 16,000 women die of uterine cancer every year. The tragic fact is that many thousands are lost needlessly because uterine cancer is one of the most curable of all types of cancer.

The cell examination for uterine cancer is one of the advances in cancer research that could save your life.

Watch for the dates of the Cytology program planned for Crawford and Roscommon Counties in January.

The Common Market . . .

If American businessmen employed the same initiative and drive in foreign markets as they use in their domestic business, the United States could out-sell any competitors in the world. That is the view of L. F. McCollum, who is chairman of the Export Expansion Committee of the U. S. Department of Commerce, and also president of Continental Oil Company. He adds: "The economies of most industrialized nations are booming, and the needs of the underdeveloped countries are tremendous. The European Common Market alone soon will represent a market almost as big as the U. S. today. In the past few years it has been growing at a rate at least twice as fast as that of the U. S."

The Common Market is a force that can, and in all probability will, bring about something resembling an economic revolution in the world. It began, with comparatively little fanfare, in 1957, the original partners being France, West Germany, the Netherlands, Italy, Belgium and Luxembourg. Now Great Britain is joining, with certain reservations — the principal one concerning her agriculture. Other advanced European nations, including the Norwegian countries, Switzerland, Austria and Ireland are expected to come in.

The purpose of the Common Market is the establishment, over a period of time, of a vast free trade area, with tariff barriers erected against non-member nations. Beyond that, the Market is designed as an increasingly potent weapon to meet the Soviet economic offensive against the West. And that brings up the question of what the role of the United States should be and is to be in this transforming world.

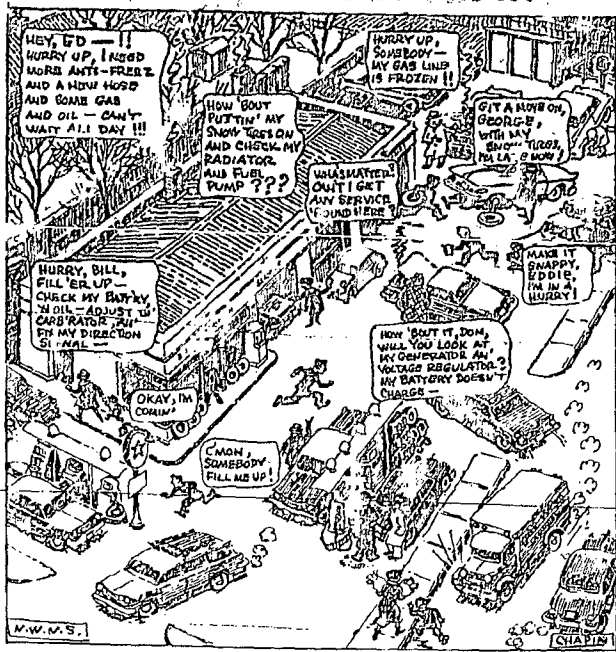

President Kennedy has asked for sweeping changes in the reciprocal trade law which will permit him to reduce our own tariffs, and to stimulate trade among the friendly powers. Former Secretary of State Acheson recently said, as quoted by the AP, that "the United States must move toward freer trade, particularly with the European Common Market, or run the danger of enhancing Soviet power by dividing the Western world." Many business leaders have said much the same thing.

This does not mean that the U. S. is going to become a formal, active participant in the Market in the foreseeable future — though, ultimately, that certainly could happen. It does mean that American producers — including those with factories abroad as well as here — are thinking in terms of new problems, new situations, and new opportunities.

There is opposition to the Common Market concept, just as there is to a reduction in our tariffs and an increase in our imports. It comes from several areas. Some businesses still would like a high, exclusive tariff policy. So would some labor spokesmen, who fear the effect of stimulated trade on our high-wage, high-fringe-benefit working force. Still a third is of a very different character — a fear, as a North American Newspaper Alliance writer puts it, "that the great dream of a single and unified Europe, if a political and economic blessing, may turn out to be a cultural nightmare" — by, little by little, making all the nations alike. The world will certainly become a drabber place if that should be the case.

In any event, the Common Market is here to stay — and is destined to become a major element in the material life of the Western World. And we, as the world's foremost single producer, must understand it and deal with it.

Last week saw a new difficulty break out in this vicinity. Measles have a good start in Frederic, Lovells, Maple Forest and Beaver Creek. Health Officer Wheeler of Frederic and the supervisors of the affected townships began immediate action to curb the menace and it is believed it will be stamped out before it reaches an epidemic stage. Quarantine and warning signs are being posted on homes where there are cases and the officers are definite in their determination to enforce the quarantine and warning orders.

To John Bruun weather means nothing—when he gets a yen to take a canoe trip down the mighty AuSable. Winter, spring, summer and autumn each offers its thrills to canoeists and John and his canoe have tested—its waters at some time during each month of the year, January to December. Waldo Hildebrand had extracted a promise from Mr. Bruun to take him and Charles Gehring, Detroit Tiger star, on one of these trips. Accordingly last Thursday evening Mr. Hildebrand and the famous Gehring arrived in Grayling and the former reminded Mr. Bruun of his promise. "I never go back on a promise," Mr. Bruun replied. "I don't know anything about baseball and Gehring doesn't know anything about canoeing, and Hildebrand doesn't know anything about either, so this should make a good party." So Friday morning the trio set out from 1527 Bridge, with John in the prow, Hildebrand in the stern, and Charlie seated in the middle. All went well until Hildebrand dropped his movie camera into the river. His attempts to fish it out nearly capsized the canoe, and Bruun exclaimed, "There is no use in giving us all a ducking, dive in and get the camera and we won't all have to get wet." Waldo wasn't long in deciding and soon he was down at the bottom of the river where the muskrats swim, and came out holding the precious camera. A fire soon dried his clothes and the trio pushed on. Noting the ease with which his companions piled their paddles, Charlie vowed he would like to try the piloting. All went well for a while but at a sharp bend in the swift current, and a sweeper, which is the bane of all neophyte guides, the canoe slipped underneath and Charlie, in the stern, reached up and grabbed the reeling tree. Next thing he was suspended in the air with only his heels holding onto the canoe. Luckily the boat could be shoved back and the "hero" rescued without having to take the ducking that usually goes with such a catastrophe. Cameras clicked when this party left Grayling and also when they disembarked at the Wakeley Bridge, where a warm fire awaited them. To quote the Tiger star, the trip was one of the finest I ever had.

Council Proceedings

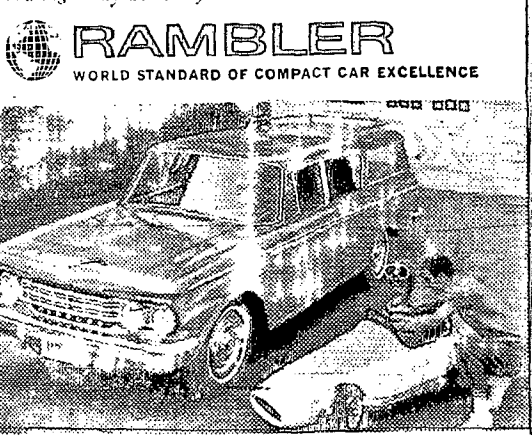

Regular meeting of the City Council held on December 11, 1961. Meeting called to order by Mayor McWilliams at 7:45 p. m. Members present: McWilliams, Gehring, McGinnis, and Hoffman. Absent: None. City Attorney Charles E. Moore presided. City Auditor Clifford Peterson, present. Citizens Present: Bruce Smith, Attorney Ward Ellison, Delbert Case, Harold Hatfield, Jr., and the City street employees represented by Frank May. Minutes of the previous meeting approved. Motion by Gehring, supported by Hoffman, that Mr. Smith ask the Council to again consider the approval of his Crawford County Avalanche. Thursday, January 11, 1962.

Plat known as the AuSable Terrace. Mr. Smith informed the Council that he was in a position to finance the construction of a sanitary sewer to serve the above Plat. He asked the Council to give him an estimate of the cost of this sewer. The Council felt that due to the existing circumstances involved in the construction of such sewer that this project should be engineered and not until such engineering is completed, should the city be able to give him the cost. The Council instructed the City Manager to make a study of this project and to report to them at the next regular meeting. Frank May serving as spokesman for the city crews asked the Council to consider the following questions: working hours, starting time in the morning, repairing cars in the city garage, pay rates, hospitalization, coffee breaks, etc. The Council informed Mr. May that these were items under the control of the City Manager and that they should be taken up with him. Delbert Case asked the Council to consider assigning certain portions of the City Park for the use of the Little Leagues. The Council informed Mr. Case that no action could be taken at this time due to the legality involved. Harold Hatfield, Chief of Police, came before the Council to hold a general discussion on police work, working hours, vacation pay, Auxiliary Police and the insurance covering them while on active duty. The City Manager informed the Council that the State Accident Insurance would cover the Auxiliary Police by increasing the payroll assessment per man of $400.00. This to be discussed at a later council meeting. Bid on gasoline prices were considered and a motion by Gehring, supported by McGinnis, that the bid submitted by Tufts Oil Company of 16.5 per gallon for 15000 gallons be accepted. Roll call vote as follows: YEAS: McWilliams, Gehring, McGinnis, McNamara and Hoffman. NAYS: None. Bids on truck blades were examined. Motion by Gehring and supported by McWilliams that the bid offered by The Hyde Equipment Company of Petoskey of one foot underbody scraper be accepted. Bid price was $1,536.00. YEAS: McWilliams, Gehring, McGinnis, Hoffman, NAYS: None. McNamara, absent. A discussion was held on how to handle police and fire calls. As there was no definite solution to this problem at this time it was set aside for further consideration. A discussion on the insurance policies by the city was held. It was decided that a date be set for a Special Council Meeting for the purpose of interviewing the respective agents of these policies. The date to be January 15, 1962 at 7:30 p. m. The City Manager was instructed to notify the agents of this date. Also to write the firm of Williams and Works, engineers of Grand Rapids, to meet with the Council at this date for interviews regarding the Sewage Disposal Plant. A discussion was held on parking on US-27. The City Manager was instructed to write the Michigan State Highway regarding this matter. No other action taken. A discussion was held on the alley back of the A & P store through to the New York Central property. The New York Central people have given the city permission to use their property as an alley, providing the city will maintain proper barricades and place the proper signs directing traffic one way through this alley. The City Manager was instructed to carry out this project. The City Manager asked the Council for permission to change the method of reading water meters from a monthly reading to a quarterly reading. After some discussion it was agreed that the quarterly method would be adopted. The Manager was given permission to put this method into effect starting with the December reading. As there was no other business to come before the Council the meeting was adjourned at 11:45 P. M.

management skills than any other location in the world. This includes foreign lands as well as the industrial centers in the United States. It is significant that these management skills are not limited to mass production industries. It extends to suppliers, drug manufacturers and a wide variety of other industries. It is evidenced in our outstanding banking institutions. With Michigan's fine schools of higher education and the training programs in industry, a continuing supply of top management personnel is assured.

Mothers-to-be Must Diet Properly, March of Dimes Research Shows

No doubt many a healthy young mother-to-be has wondered why her doctor puts so much emphasis on proper diet during pregnancy—especially if she's never been ill a day in her life, and she has a yen for wholesome foods.

But there's good reason for it.
More and more it's becoming evident that for the sake of her child a pregnant woman must have a diet adequate in vitamins and minerals, particularly in the early stages of the baby's development.

The reason lies in the dread words: birth defects.
Until about 20 years ago, scientists generally went along with the idea that birth defects in higher animals—and that includes man—were due for the most part to heredity. So if a baby had picked out the right genes, he or she would be born with a good chance of coming into the world perfectly normal, and sound of mind and limb.

Complex Factors Involved Today, however, doctors know the story is not that simple. An increasing number of studies have shown that a wide variety of factors play a part in the birth picture. If a mother gets either too much or too little of such vital substances as hormones, oxygen, minerals or vitamins—during certain stages of her pregnancy, the baby may fail to survive, or may be born malformed.

Under a research grant from The National Foundation—March of Dimes, Dr. Marjorie Nelson at the University of California has been trying to determine just how the absence of a vitamin or mineral may interfere with normal prenatal development.

She has found that in rats the absence of even a single one of certain important minerals or vitamins during early pregnancy can produce drastic effects.
Apparently nature has set up a delicate balance which mother's body must maintain.
If this balance is upset even for a relatively short time, permanent damage may result to the offspring.

Dr. Marjorie Nelson, March of Dimes grantee at the University of California, inspects research specimens under the microscope. It's part of her study to determine the influence of vitamin and mineral deficiencies as causes of birth defects.

In her San Francisco laboratory Dr. Nelson has demonstrated that even a temporary deficiency of a vitamin such as folic acid during early pregnancy can cause birth abnormalities in these young laboratory animals. The defects may range from the relatively minor to the very severe which include brain damage, displacement of internal organs, cleft palate or serious malformations of the heart and eyes.

Timing Is Critical
When Dr. Nelson puts the normal pregnant animals on such a folic acid-deficient diet during the second week of their pregnancy, at least 30 per cent of the embryos die or are malformed. However, if she carries out the same experiment about a week earlier or a week later, the young appear to suffer no adverse effects, thus underlining the importance of proper diet at the critical stages of pregnancy. In a woman, the comparable period of pregnancy extends primarily from the second to the eighth week of the baby's development.

Radioactivity Used
Dr. Nelson has also obtained a high incidence of skeletal defects in young rats when the mother animal's diet was deficient in the mineral manganese. She is extending these studies with support from The National Foundation—March of Dimes using radioactive material in the diet to trace what goes wrong inside embryonic cells to hinder their normal development.

According to Dr. Virginia Aggar, director of the division of congenital malformations of The National Foundation, "Dr.
Nelson's project has a direct bearing on the question of birth defects in humans. It is definitely known, for example, that severe folic acid deficiency in a woman can lead to loss of a baby during early pregnancy." And as Dr. Nelson has pointed out, equally significant, the congenital malformations in the young animals that survive are irreversible. No amount of vitamins given later in pregnancy can undo the damage once a deficiency has occurred during the critical period of pregnancy.

Clinics Are Established Because of the increasing problem of birth defects—it is now estimated that significant malformations occur in one in every 18 babies born in this country—each year, The National Foundation—March of Dimes has recently established a number of Special Treatment and Clinical Study Centers for dealing with this crucial medical question. The Birth Defects Treatment Centers are in Jackson, Miss.; Atlanta, Ga.; Seattle, Portland, Ore.; San Francisco; Little Rock, Ark.; Indianapolis; Morgantown, W.
Va.; New York City; Baltimore; and Washington, D. C.
These are supported on the local level by The National Foundation's chapters.
In addition, Birth Defects Clinical Study Centers are located in Oklahoma City; Nashville, Tenn.; and Columbus, Ohio. These Centers are maintained on a national level with March of Dimes funds which are being applied by The National Foundation to continue support and expansion of such Centers for the development of total medical care for youngsters afflicted with congenital defects.

Between The Bookends

SAVANNA JANICE HOLT

Savanna Fowler was a throwback to both her grandmothers—a stormy spirit and an unshakable will. Widowed at nineteen, she faced the world alone on the rough frontier determined to show herself equal to any man. Who but Savanna would bandage her blistered hands, blistered through her own folly to ride in a horse race? Would she stubbornly insist on running her trading stores in the face of competition from such experienced and ruthless men as Auguste Chateau and Sam Hous-ton? Would she prefer the attentions of an army sergeant to those of a commanding general?

In the five turbulent years following the death of her first husband the lust for living brought her passion, violence, tragedy and despair. Her enduring strength bore her through to fortitude and a kind of peace.

WILDERNESS - ROBERT PENN WARREN

In the summer of 1883 Adam Rosenzweig has left Bavaria and sailed to America to join the Union Army. Fired by the revolutionary idealism of mid-nineteenth century Europe he hopes to aid a cause which he believes to be simple and just.

Wilderness is the story of Adam's adventures in America. In this fast moving narrative, full of surprising events and extraordinary characters, we have the story of Adam's growth by experience, to a deeper understanding of himself and of the world he must accept before he can take his proper place in it.

MICHIGAN IS MANAGEMENT KNOW-HOW

Michigan offers to industry management know-how in a degree that is unmatched anywhere.

Here in Michigan, management headquarters of mass production, we have more management skills than anywhere in the world. That includes—Pittsburgh, Chicago, Essen—everywhere.

Our management know-how is not limited to mass production industries, although the world looks to Michigan's leadership in that area. Michigan's management know-how excels in production of drugs and the many other products of our State. It is outstanding in the world of finance.

With management headquarters of the Big Three automobile manufacturers located in Michigan, this management leadership extends to supplier companies, management know-how is necessary to industrial development.

With our diversity of industrial skills, natural resources, transportation, markets and management know-how, Michigan is a great place for industry.

Help carry Michigan's message to the nation. Clip this ad and mail it to someone in another state with your comment. Let's talk up Michigan and its advantages for industry. Together we can assure a greater future for all of us.
